

North Kent Embroiderers

Happy New Year to all our readers. This month's report and photos come from Veronica.

It may have been bitterly cold outside Southfleet Village Hall where we met for our December Christmas meeting but inside, it was warm with Christmas trees and decorations!

Fourteen members braved the weather and certainly made their presence felt. There was much fun and laughter as, divided into tables, they attempted the quiz which Veronica had compiled. As we are an embroidery group, she even included some embroidery questions! One slight problem though, she got into a muddle with the answers - do we sack her or do make her do the job again?

Watch this space!

Tea and coffee were on tap as were the light refreshments including crisps, savoury sticks, mince pies, and rocky road cake, a perennial favourite.

Members participated in the Secret Card and Secret Santa sacks with much hilarity as well as much admiration for the cards that others had made!

The banner of North Kent Embroiderers' Guild was on display for members to decide as to what happened next to it as we are no longer NKEG. Those present decided that they wished it to be disassembled and made into a book or some sort of a working format so that members can refer to it. It is too large and cumbersome in its present form. Another case of 'watch this space'.
