

North Kent Embroiderers

Hello Everybody,

In case you are wondering, the QR code that I was embroidering, is now finished and yes it does work. Try it for yourself. Old skills meet new technology!

Talking of old skills, in 2007 some of our members embroidered a beautiful hanging to go in what was known as the St Andrews Arts Centre. It still hangs there today but as the building is to undergo some renovation work, it will be rehoused elsewhere. I thought it might be good to see it again.

The blue and white theme came from the colours of the St Andrew's flag. The images on the hanging were taken from various designs in the centre and the surrounding areas. All the members of the group took part. Individual sections were created using blue silk as a base and mainly blue and silver threads to depict the image. Interestingly it has now become a historical record as Tilbury Power Station is no longer in existence.

Thank you to Veronica for her last newsletter which contained much to inform and entertain us including delicious recipes for peanut butter sweets, orange and cranberry cake and a white Christmas cake. This reminds me that cake is an important part of our meetings thanks to Anita. Many of us enjoy the chance to share ideas and experiences over a cuppa and a slice of something good to eat.

Our next meeting will be a 'stitch and chat' session which will include a small group learning more about their overlockers. This will be led by Caroline from CCB sewing machines <https://ccb-sewing-limited.myshopify.com/> We will of course all be following government guidelines regarding Covid.
